Invitation for Proposals

1. INTRODUCTION¹$

1.1. Background

- 1.1.1. The Development Monitoring and Evaluation Office (DMEO) (the “Authority”) was constituted in September 2015 by merging of the erstwhile Programme Evaluation Office (PEO) and the Independent Evaluation Office (IEO). DMEO is an attached Office of NITI Aayog to fulfil the mandates of monitoring and evaluation assigned to NITI Aayog.
- 1.1.2. To ensure efficient and effective use of public resources, the Government of India has made evaluation of the Centrally Sponsored Schemes (CSS) and Central Sector schemes mandatory before the schemes come up for fresh appraisal. The Government also has adopted output-outcome monitoring framework to strengthen monitoring and evaluation of the schemes. After the Five-Year Plans were done away with at the end of 12th Five Year Plan, in order to rationalize the available resources based on the recommendations of the Finance Commission for the achievement of the National Development Agenda, the Government had made the approval of the schemes co-terminus with the Finance Commission cycle.
- 1.1.3. The 14th Finance Commission cycle will end in March 2020, and the 15th Finance Commission will begin thereafter. The Government has assigned DMEO, NITI Aayog the responsibility to conduct independent third-party evaluation of all the CSS in a time bound manner so that the findings of the evaluation are made available to appropriate authorities for determining the rationalization of the schemes.
- 1.1.4. Proliferation of the number of CSS has led to a number of concerns. Based on the recommendation of the Sub-Group of Chief Ministers on the rationalization of CSS, and consultations with various Ministries/Departments and other stakeholders, the Government of India in 2016 rationalized the CSS under the 28 umbrella CSS to achieve the overarching National Development Agenda. The National Development Agenda consists of the following: (i) poverty elimination – livelihoods, jobs and skill development; (ii) drinking water and Swachh Bharat mission; (iii) rural connectivity: electricity, access roads and communication; (iv) agriculture including animal husbandry, fisheries, integrated watershed management and irrigation; (v) education including mid-day meal; (vi) health, nutrition, women and child; (vii) housing for all: rural and urban; (viii) urban transformation; (ix) law and order, justice delivery system; and (x) others, which may include: wildlife conservation and greening.
- 1.1.5. The evaluation of the CSS under the 28 umbrella CSS will be conducted through 10 sector evaluation studies listed below. DMEO invites proposal for selection of technical consultants (the Consultants) to conduct evaluation of the following 10 sectors

Where S is the combined score, and T_w and F_w are weights assigned to Technical Proposal and Financial Proposal, which shall be 0.80 and 0.20 respectively.

- 3.4.2 The Selected Applicant shall be the first ranked Applicant (having the highest combined score). Terms of Reference (TOR) for Consultancy for Evaluation of Centrally Sponsored Schemes in Package 9 – Water Resources, Environment and Forest

1. Background of the Sector

Natural Resources (broadly, water, soil, forests, land and aquatic habitats including wild flora and fauna) put together provide the necessary ecosystem services, through a complex chain of interdependencies to maintain overall ecological balance. This provides fundamental life support in terms of both consumptive and public-good services. For example, sustainability of water resources ensures water security for purposes ranging from basic life-support in form of enabling better drinking water and sanitation facilities to driving economic activities through agriculture and irrigation. Similarly, ecological processes maintain soil productivity, nutrient recycling, the cleansing of air and water, and climatic cycles. Keeping these ecosystem services intact through human interventions and managing the way in which humans interact with their natural landscapes in an integrated and sustainable manner is what Natural Resource Management (NRM) entails.

In terms of the Government's intervention in this sector, the programmes are spread across several ministries, departments and related bodies like Ministry of Water Resources, River Development & Ganga Rejuvenation, Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change, Ministry of Agriculture and Farmers' Welfare, Department of Land Resources, Central Pollution Control Board, Central Ground Water Board, etc.

In view of the above, it is critical that a study with an integrated approach to assess the efficacy of the government interventions in this area is undertaken. However, given the context and current requirements, this study will mainly focus on the interventions across the Ministry of Water Resources, River Development & Ganga Rejuvenation and Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change.

The terms of reference herein will discuss the objectives of the study separately for the Water Resources sub-sector and Environment & Forest sub-sector and it will be expected from the Consultant that the report is also structured accordingly to reflect findings & provide recommendations for each sector separately in the form of two sub-reports while also drawing in the synergies across them at the level of Natural Resources Management.

(I) Water Resources sub-sector

As clearly laid out in NITI Aayog's India @ 75 Strategy, by 2022-23, India's water resources management strategy should facilitate water security to ensure adequate availability of water for life, agriculture, economic development, ecology and environment. Additionally, SDG targets 2.3 and 8.5 clearly put emphasis on doubling the agriculture productivity and incomes of the farmers which are not possible without providing assured irrigation facilities to farmers.⁴

It further states that in terms of the overall status of average availability of annual water resources, annual precipitation in India, including snowfall, which is the main source of water, is about 4000 billion cubic metres (bcm). About 53.3 per cent of the total precipitation is lost due to evapo-transpiration, which leaves a balance of 1869 bcm water in the country. Of this, the available utilizable water resource potential is 1137 bcm, comprising 690 bcm of surface water and 447 bcm of ground water.

The rain-fed agriculture in India covers about 76 million hectare, constituting 54 percent of the net cultivated area in the country. However, out of the total food production in the country, only 44 percent is from rain-fed/ dry-land farming supporting about 40 percent of the population.

With proper irrigation facilities, food production from rain-fed areas can be increased substantially. In fact, enhancing agricultural production by extending irrigation coverage to rain-fed areas may improve food and nutrition security beside reducing imports and raising exports. There is a need for not only expanding area coverage under irrigation but also to minimize the gap between irrigation potential created and irrigation potential utilized. Substantial dependence on rainfall renders cultivation in un-irrigated regions uncertain and a high-risk, less productive occupation. Empirical evidence suggests that assured or protective irrigation encourages farmers to invest more in farming, improved technology and modern inputs leading to productivity enhancement and increased farm income. Provision of timely and sufficient irrigation on farms enhances crop productivity and also facilitates cultivation of multiple crops leading to substantial increase in agriculture production.

The primary scheme run by the Government of India to address these challenges is Pradhan Mantri Krishi Sinchai Yojana (PMKSY), comprising of five components. These are spread across Ministry of Water Resources, RD & GR, Ministry of Agricultural Cooperation and Farmers Welfare, and Ministry of Rural Development. The four major components are Har Khet Ko Pani, Per Drop More Crop, Watershed Development Component and Accelerated Irrigation Benefits Programme. These promote precision irrigation for water use efficiency, soil and moisture conservation activities, construction of canals, ponds, rainwater harvesting structures etc. A complete list of PMKSY and its components along with their outlays is given in Appendix IV (A).

Mechanism of Implementation & Challenges:

A 3-tier mechanism of implementation has been created at the National, State and District level:

1. An Inter-Ministerial Council has been constituted for PMKSY under the Chairmanship of CEO, NITI Aayog to oversee programme implementation, allocation of resources, inter-ministerial coordination, monitoring and performance assessment, addressing administrative issues etc.
2. At the State Level, Agriculture Department acts as the nodal department for implementation of PMKSY as the final outcome of the programme is to ensure access to efficient delivery and application of water at every farm thereby enhancing agriculture production and productivity. The State Level Sanctioning Committee (SLSC), already constituted under RKVY and chaired by the Chief Secretary of the State, is vested with the authority to sanction specific projects recommended by the Inter Departmental Working Group (IDWG).
3. The District Level Implementation Committee (DLIC) forms the third tier of the PMKSY. The DLIC is chaired by the District Collector/ District Magistrate and comprise of CEO Zila Parishad/PD DRDA, Joint Director/Deputy Directors of Departments of Horticulture, Agriculture, Rural Development, Surface and Ground Water Resources, Irrigation, District Forest Officer and Lead Bank Officer of the District, and any other line Departments in the district. In addition, DLIC may have two progressive farmers and a leading NGO working in the District, if any, as members. As per the present PMKSY guidelines, central Assistance is provided in the ratio of 90:10 (central share: state Share) for all projects benefitting hilly states of J&K, HP, Uttarakhand and North Eastern States and 60:40 (central share: State Share) for projects in other areas.

However, the scheme still faces issues like States not supporting through matching contributions, no pari passu implementation of AIBP, CAD and Micro-Irrigation works, project time and cost overruns, challenges in land acquisition, efficacy of flood protection works, contract management, field staff capacity constraints and negligible engagement of communities for asset management through participatory processes⁵.

Past studies undertaken and need for the current study: Recently, there have been no studies commissioned by the Ministry of Water Resources, RD & GR for PMKSY and its four sub components though NITI Aayog has initiated evaluation studies for two components namely Per drop More Crop and Watershed Development Program. Also, an Outcome review/Third party evaluation of the two Plan Schemes 'Flood Management Programme (FMP)' and 'River Management Activities & Works related to Border Areas (RMBA)' implemented during XII Plan was carried out by a Committee constituted under the Director of National Institute of Hydrology, Roorkee based on which, "Flood Management Programme" (FMP) and "River Management Activities & Works related to Border Areas" (RMBA) were merged into single scheme - "Flood Management and Border Areas Programme" (FMBAP) for three year period from 2017-18 to 2019-20.

(II) Environment & Forest sub-sector

As a part of the 28 umbrella schemes identified by the Government of India, the Centrally Sponsored Scheme (CSS) "Environment, Forestry & Wildlife" has a budget of Rs. 1019 crore, covering 8 schemes/sub-schemes. The schemes/sub-schemes, under this head, broadly cover management of protected areas/wildlife habitats in the country with the objective of conservation of flora and fauna. Along with managing protected areas, the umbrella scheme also covers 'Mission for a Green India' working on afforestation and forest fire prevention, and National River Conservation Programme, which works on cleaning polluted stretches of rivers. Conservation of Biosphere Reserves and Aquatic Eco-systems is also included.

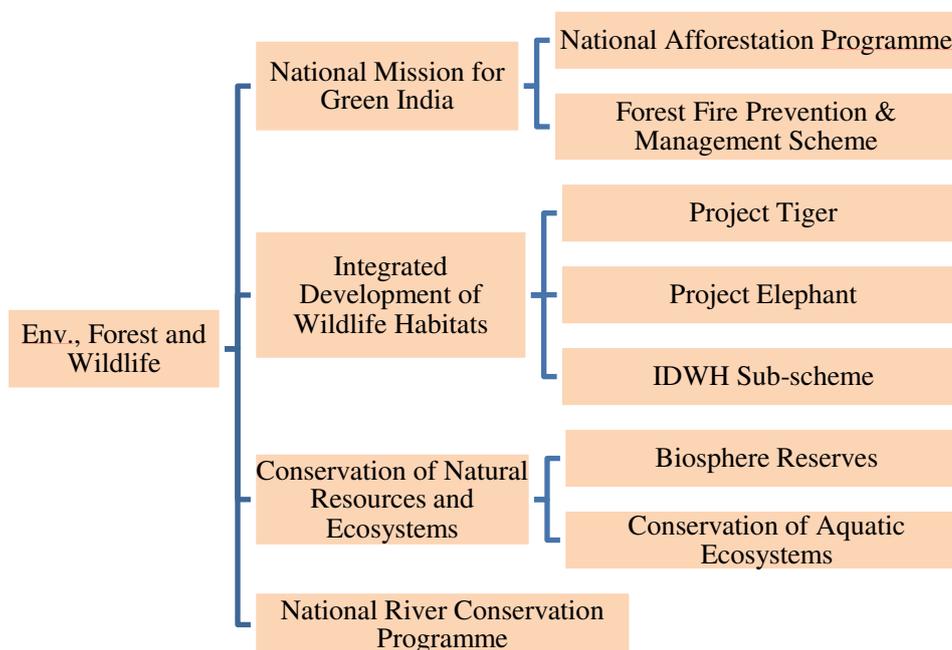

The Umbrella Scheme includes Project Tiger which was launched on 1st April, 1973 for in-situ conservation of wild tigers in designated tiger reserves. In 2005, National Tiger Conservation Authority (NTCA) was set up to provide funding and technical support to the tiger reserves under the Project. Project Elephant (PE) was launched by the Government of India in the year 1992 as a Centrally Sponsored Scheme where financial and technical support are being provided to the concerned States. Further, Integrated Development of Wildlife Habitats provides funding assistance to States for support to Protected Areas (PAs) other than tiger reserves, recovery programme of critically endangered species, and protection of wildlife outside Protected Areas including mitigation of human-wildlife conflict.

National Mission for Green India includes National Afforestation Programme and Forest Fire Prevention and Management Scheme. National Afforestation Programme aims at rehabilitation of degraded forests and other areas by institutionalizing decentralized/participatory forest management and supplementing livelihoods improvement processes. Forest Fire Prevention and Management Scheme aims to provide financial assistance to States for their integrated forest fire prevention and management efforts.

Conservation of Natural Eco-systems encompasses two schemes. Conservation of Aquatic Ecosystems envisages conservation of lakes and other wetlands in the country. The second scheme, Biosphere Reserves was initiated in 1986 for in-situ conservation of representative ecosystems of major bio-geographic zones of the country that are globally important, under UNESCO’s Man and Biosphere Programme. National River Conservation Plan aims to reduce the pollution load of rivers through implementation of various pollution abatement works, thereby improving their water quality. Further, the schemes covered under this CSS can be understood by the flow chart given below: -

The schemes in this sector broadly correspond to the Sustainable Development Goals of Life on Land (SDG 15) and Life below Water (SDG 14), while also contributing to SDG 13: Climate Action, by preserving forested land as carbon sinks, and building resilience among forest communities. A list of all the CSS schemes along with their outlays is given in Appendix IV (A).

In view of the above, a more comprehensive study on Water Resources sub-sector as well as in the Environment & Forest area is required to be commissioned to provide specific inputs for programme harmonization and identify structural gaps in the sector where further interventions need to be designed. In this way, the study will enable assessment of CSS schemes for their rationalization and continuity beyond the 14th Finance Commission period (2015-20). The period of evaluation for the study will be 2015-16 to 2018-19. The detailed objectives of the study are given below.

2. Objectives & Approach of the Evaluation Study – Water Resources sub-sector

Here, the objectives and approach of Water Resources sub-sector are given.

Objectives

a. Sector Analysis

- i. To assess the status of the Water Resources sub-sector in the country in terms of availability and utilization of water resources for various end uses (agriculture & allied, industry, rural & urban household needs) along the principles of access, quality & adequacy, equity and sustainability. The Consultant will also assess the overall nature and responsiveness of water resources planning in the country based on a source to user full water cycle approach and suggest structural improvements therein.
- ii. To provide a forward-looking assessment on the Water Security scenario of the country on four key dimensions - Household water security, Economic water security, Urban water security and Environmental water security and provide overarching policy suggestions therein.
- iii. To qualitatively and quantitatively map the intended and actual contribution of PMKSY to Water Resources sub-sector outcomes:
 - Agriculture Sector i.e. change in cropping pattern, area expansion, production, productivity of major crops, cropping intensity and diversity as well as cost benefit ratio of Agriculture/Horticulture Crops.
 - Change in the ground water table
 - Rural economy in terms of change in rural income and especially farmers' income, especially the vulnerable sections of the society, employment and skill enhancement, if any, and expenditure patterns.

b. Umbrella and Scheme level analysis:

- i. To assess the Umbrella schemes and each CSS scheme on the Relevance, Effectiveness, Efficiency, Sustainability, Impacts (REESI)⁶ and Equity framework.

⁶ ECG. 2011. Good Practice Standards for Public Sector Operations. Washington, DC: (<https://www.ecgnet.org/documents/4794/download>)

- ii. To assess the Umbrella schemes and each CSS scheme on various cross-sectional themes as elaborated in the next section, as well as unintended consequences/negative externalities of PMKSY programme like migration, water table, shift to water-intensive crops, etc. and how these were triggered. Also map them against the social, economic and environmental safeguards in the scheme design.
- c. To identify and highlight scalable best practices and home-grown innovations, if any, create case studies for further dissemination
- d. Programme Harmonization:
 - i. To provide recommendations based on the synthesis of sectoral and scheme-level analysis, on the need to continue the schemes in their existing form, modify, scale-up, scale-down or close down the schemes
 - ii. To suggest revisions in the scheme/schemes design for the effective implementation in future, if modification is recommended

Approach

- a. The sectoral analysis will be driven by the meta-analysis of secondary data, and validated through the primary data collection.
 - i. Gaps in the broad sectoral outcomes where national priorities/SDGs are not being addressed either due to absence of interventions or non-performance of existing schemes/interventions. For gap analysis, new schemes and initiatives announced in 2019-20 may also be considered.
 - ii. Convergence of the scheme, both intended and actual, to other developmental programmes of the Central and the State Governments as well as with private sector, CSR efforts, international multilateral and bilateral aid, etc.
- b. The Umbrella and scheme-level analysis will be based on triangulation of primary and secondary data, as outlined in the methodology. It will include an assessment of the relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, sustainability, impacts and equity of the Umbrella schemes and CSS schemes. Details on this framework are available in the Guidelines for Evaluation placed at Appendix IV. In line with this understanding, the following aspects will have to be assessed as a part of the analysis:
 - i. Process of planning, its efficacy and effectiveness by mapping it against implementation and enabling feedback/course corrections. This includes assessment of State & District Irrigation Plans (SIP and DIP), reasons for delay in their formulation, status of their implementation and available datasets therein for the decision-makers.
 - ii. Appropriate indicators for evaluation of both structural and non-structural interventions under the programmes/schemes will have to be identified.

- iii. Input use efficiency of PMKSY in terms of institutional mechanisms as per the mandate & its execution e.g. integration of works across 3 ministries/departments or implementation model for spread of Per Drop More Crop, regularity/timeliness and adequacy of fund flow at each step and utilization through public expenditure tracking, policy reforms and guidelines including provisions for asset maintenance, human resource capacity deployed at central, state, district, block, and village level, mechanisms to identify and reward best practices within the scheme design as well as Monitoring & Evaluation systems.
- iv. Status of physical access of water on the farm as envisioned under the programme/scheme including works done to strengthen the carrying capacity of the traditional water bodies; study the changes in the irrigation pattern and gross irrigated area of the country and analyze the irrigation potential created and potential utilized and the gap therein. This has to be examined at an overall as well as State/UT wise level for the reference period. The Consultant will verify the potential creation reported by the State from a particular project post completion of all the physical works on the ground and examine the quality of assets created/services provided under the schemes.
- v. Coverage of PMKSY in terms of eligible beneficiaries, geographies, etc. This should also specifically focus on coverage of landless and small and marginal farmers.
- vi. Key bottlenecks/issues & challenges in the implementation of PMKSY in aspects like constitution and functioning of District-level Monitoring Committees as against the guidelines, field staff capacity in terms of technical and administrative prowess, land acquisition and resettlement & rehabilitation, project monitoring & contract management, participatory asset management and on-ground convergence in works e.g. Command Area Development & Micro-Irrigation works.
- vii. Participatory Irrigation Management i.e. Water Users' Association (WUAs) in terms of their creation/ registration, capacity building, financial empowerment, taking-over of irrigation assets, and day-to-day functioning and evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of the functional WUAs including their financial sustainability, and capacity for proper maintenance of assets and in ensuring equitable distribution of water.
- viii. Convergence of programme/scheme with other schemes of the Central and State Government as well as Private Sector/CSR efforts.

For scheme-specific analysis and preparation of Appendix 2 of the Final Evaluation Report (as specified in para 9 of this TOR), the scheme-specific areas of inquiry in Appendix IV of this RFP should also be taken into consideration.

c. Cross-sectional Thematic Assessment

The cross-sectional themes based on which the Umbrella scheme and each CSS scheme will be assessed may include:

- i. Accountability and transparency
- ii. Direct/indirect employment generation
- iii. Gender mainstreaming
- iv. Building resilience to climate change (including but not limited to developing water disaster preparedness) & ensuring sustainability
- v. Role of Tribal Sub-Plan (TSP) and Scheduled Caste Sub-Plan component of the scheme in mainstreaming of Tribal and Scheduled Caste population
- vi. Use of IT/Technology in driving efficiency and effectiveness
- vii. Stakeholder & beneficiary behavioural change
- viii. Research and Development
- ix. Acts/regulations, regulatory bodies and reforms
- x. Water sharing treaties/agreements & diplomacy
- xi. Conjunctive use of water - surface versus groundwater usage optimizations
- xii. Unlocking synergies with other government programmes
- xiii. Reforms & regulations
- xiv. Impact on and role of private sector, community and civil society/NGOs in the scheme especially in use of participatory resource management.

d. Prioritization of Schemes:

- i. For prioritization of schemes for evaluation, two parameters are to be taken into consideration: (i) duration of implementation, and (ii) budget allocation.
- ii. Based on duration of implementation, schemes can be classified into two categories: (a) those introduced prior to 14th Finance Commission cycle; and (b) those that were introduced during the 14th Finance Commission cycle. Schemes that were launched prior to 14th Finance Commission cycle (prior to 2015-16) are more amenable to full scale evaluation. For those schemes that are introduced during the 14th Finance Commission cycle (between 2015-16 to 2019-20), one needs to be cognizant that new schemes need time to be introduced, take off, and stabilize, and generally have to face a number of initiation challenges. This means, most of the schemes introduced in the 14th Finance Commission cycle have had only few years of full implementation, and therefore for these schemes a mid-term evaluation may be more relevant. Additionally, there are a few schemes that have been launched recently, in 2018-19, which can be categorized as ‘new’ schemes, for which a limited assessment of their progress till date could be conducted by the Consultant.
- iii. Schemes can also be classified based on the budget outlay. Of the 126 total schemes, 18 large schemes take up 80% of the CSS outlay, while 80 odd smaller schemes take up just 5%. Schemes with budget outlay less than Rs 3,000 crores cumulatively over five years (2015-16 to 2019-20) need to be particularly carefully evaluated from the perspective of Report of the Sub-Group of Chief Ministers on Rationalisation of Centrally Sponsored Schemes, 2015. Within these 80 small schemes, there are certain schemes that have zero budget allocations during 1-4 years of the evaluation period. The selected Consultant may confer with the concerned Ministry/Department the status of these schemes, and conduct a short analysis for the schemes that are proposed to be closed.

- iv. In addition, there are certain schemes which are empowered through specific acts of legislation. Assuming that these schemes will continue, evaluation of these legislatively-backed schemes should focus on input and process insights for improving the outcomes and impact of these schemes.

3. Objectives & Approach of the Evaluation Study – Environment & Forest sub-sector

Here, the objectives and approach of Environment & Forest sub-sector are given.

Objectives

a. Sectoral analysis:

- i. To assess the status of the sectoral performance in terms of green cover augmentation, wildlife habitat conservation, biodiversity improvement including endangered species conservation within and outside protected areas and overall ecological balance restoration in the country for both on-land and aquatic ecosystems.
- ii. To qualitatively and quantitatively map the intended and actual contribution of Umbrella schemes and each CSS scheme under the Umbrella schemes to the sector outcomes.
 - Ecological restoration of existing natural habitats and migratory routes
 - Mitigation of human-wildlife conflicts and community engagement
 - Wildlife population stabilization and improvement
 - Wildlife health
 - Preparedness against disasters e.g. forest fires and epidemics
 - Role of eco-tourism in sustainable development
 - Climate Change Resilience

b. Umbrella and Scheme level analysis:

- i. To assess the Umbrella schemes and each CSS scheme on the Relevance, Effectiveness, Efficiency, Sustainability, Impacts (REESI)⁷ and Equity framework.
- ii. To assess the Umbrella schemes and each CSS scheme on various cross-sectional themes as elaborated in the next section, as well as unintended consequences/negative externalities of programme implementation. Existing mechanisms such as environmental and social safeguards within the scheme design to mitigate these risks may be assessed as well.

⁷ ECG. 2011. Good Practice Standards for Public Sector Operations. Washington, DC: (<https://www.ecgnet.org/documents/4794/download>)

- c. To identify and highlight scalable best practices and home-grown innovations, if any, create case studies for further dissemination e.g. understanding the utilization of Panna Tiger Reserve success scenario.

Synergies – The Consultant will identify cross-sectoral best practices and suggest mechanisms for implementation of these learnings in each sub-sectoral interventions

d. Programme Harmonization:

- i. To provide recommendations based on the synthesis of sectoral and scheme-level analysis, on the need to continue the schemes in their existing form, modify, scale-up, scale-down or close down the schemes
- ii. To suggest revisions in the scheme/schemes design for the effective implementation in future, if modification is recommended

Synergies – The Consultant will also provide suggestions on merging programmes across sub-sectors e.g. river conservation in Ministry of Environment, Forest & Climate Change and Namami Gange in Ministry of Water Resources, River Development & Ganga Rejuvenation.

Approach

- a. The sectoral analysis will be driven by the meta-analysis of secondary data, and validated through the primary data collection.
 - i. Gaps in the broad sectoral outcomes where national priorities/SDGs are not being addressed either due to absence of interventions or non-performance of existing schemes/interventions. For gap analysis, new schemes and initiatives announced in 2019-20 may also be considered.

Synergies – The Consultant will assess the cross-sectoral impacts in terms of interventions under Water Resources sub-sector on environment at large and in and around the geographies targeted under the interventions under the environment and forest sub-sector. E.g. the interventions in the buffer zones may have an impact on the core forest areas and broader ecosystem or the environmental impact of projects under major irrigation works. Similarly, sustainable forest management enables supply of good-quality fresh water and protection against natural hazards like floods or soil erosion in buffer zones.

- ii. Convergence of the scheme, both intended and actual, to other developmental programmes of the Central and the State Governments as well as with private sector, CSR efforts, international multilateral and bilateral aid, etc.
- b. The Umbrella and scheme-level analysis will be based on triangulation of primary and secondary data, as outlined in the methodology. It will include an assessment of the relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, impacts, equity and sustainability of the Umbrella schemes and CSS schemes. Details on this framework are available in the Guidelines for Evaluation placed at Appendix IV. In line with this understanding, the following aspects will have to be assessed as a part of the analysis:

- i. Input use efficiency of various CSS schemes such as institutional mechanisms like the functioning of the NTCA in relation to the Ministry, state Forest Development Agencies and division-level Joint Forest Management Committees, Wildlife Crime Control Bureau etc., fund flow (adequacy, timeliness and steps e.g. to states or CFOs) & utilization through public expenditure tracking, policy guidelines & existing laws like the Wildlife Protection Act, 1972 and Forest Rights Act 2006, international compliances to be adhered to like the Convention on Biological Diversity, and capacity and strength of human resources allocated for the implementation of the schemes at central, state, district, block, and village as well as Monitoring & Evaluation systems.
- ii. Coverage and prioritization of the scheme in terms of eligible species (flora and fauna), habitats & geographies, human settlements & beneficiaries in core and buffer zone.
- iii. Key bottlenecks/issues & challenges in the implementation mechanisms like land use change and challenge of forest-based industries, integrated and scientific nature of programmes, law enforcement and wildlife crime control, information, education and communications (IEC), community engagement and avoidance of human-wildlife conflict through livelihood generation/dependency, technical and administrative capacities on field, infrastructure augmentation and maintenance, use of technology, mainstreaming of traditional practices, etc. of various development schemes of the Ministry.
- iv. Effectiveness of perception management efforts among locals on social and economic advantages of eco-tourism like through sharing of revenue, alternate livelihood generation etc.
- v. Quality of assets created/services provided under the schemes and to see how far these assets/services benefitted the end beneficiaries. Examples of assets could include watchtowers, firelines, wells etc., while services include village relocation activities, alternative livelihood promotion, compensation due to human-wildlife conflict etc.
- vi. How far the guidelines of the programme have opened the doors of convergence to other developmental programmes of the Central and the State Governments, such as with the Ministries of Tribal Affairs, Rural Development as well as with Private Sector/CSR effort.
- vii. Identify appropriate indicators for evaluation of both structural and non-structural interventions under the programme.

Synergies – The Consultant will assess the input-use efficiency of on-ground coordination mechanism in and around forest areas, convergence of fund flow to buffer zone development activities with water resources related works, change in behavioral aspects of populace in buffer zones triggered due to improved access to irrigation towards broader ecosystem conservation, ease of programme implementation in light of conflicting regulations in the buffer zones (if any), coordination of efforts to design and execute water resources related works in migratory pathways, and need for holistic planning for natural resources management while establishing institutional linkages between the two sub-sectors and their linkage with other related ministries like mines, etc.

For scheme-specific analysis and preparation of Appendix 2 of the Final Evaluation Report (as specified in para 10 of this TOR), the scheme-specific areas of inquiry in Appendix IV of this RFP should be taken into consideration.

c. Cross-sectional Thematic Assessment

The cross-sectional themes based on which the Umbrella scheme and each CSS scheme will be assessed may include:

- i. Accountability and transparency
- ii. Direct/indirect employment generation
- iii. Gender mainstreaming
- iv. Climate change & sustainability
- v. Role of Tribal Sub-Plan (TSP) and Scheduled Caste Sub-Plan component of the scheme in mainstreaming of Tribal and Scheduled Caste population
- vi. Use of IT/Technology in driving efficiency
- vii. Stakeholder & beneficiary behavioural change
- viii. Research and Development
- ix. Unlocking synergies with other government programmes
- x. Reforms & regulations
- xi. Impact on and role of private sector, community and civil society/NGOs in the scheme.

Synergies – The Consultant will explore the synergies in each of the thematic areas above in terms of planning and executional convergence e.g. how the private sector effort for each sub-sectors can be mapped in buffer zones while planning and executing government interventions.

d. Prioritization of Schemes:

For prioritization of schemes for evaluation, the process for the Environment & Forest sub-sector will be the same as that followed for Water Resources sub-sector.

4. Scope of Services

- a. Reference period of the study: The sectoral evaluation will be for the period from 2015-16 to 2018-19.

- b. Based on meta-analysis and key informant interviews, and community and household surveys, the evaluation study will provide insights into reasons for success and failure of program design, institutional arrangements, human resources, political economy considerations, among others. The study will also provide strategic insights into:
- Sector gaps both due to lack of specific interventions and failure or poor outcomes of existing schemes;
 - Institutional and human resource failures and best practices;
 - Institutional provisions for monitoring and evaluation;
 - Degree of adoption of outcome-output framework;
 - Adoption of technology for effective program implementation;
 - Political economy constraints and program design constraints/provisions; among others

The analysis of sectoral performance and Umbrella programmes' contribution to this performance will primarily be based on meta-analysis whereas the individual CSS scheme-wise analysis will be based on the field study as well as scheme-wise secondary data analysis. The findings of scheme-wise analysis will feed into the broader Umbrella programme & sectoral findings for better synthesis.

- c. The analysis of sectoral performance and Umbrella programmes' contribution to this performance will primarily be based on meta-analysis whereas the individual CSS scheme-wise analysis will be based on the field study as well as scheme-wise secondary data analysis. The findings of scheme-wise analysis will feed into the broader Umbrella programme & sectoral findings.

d. Meta-analysis

The data and methods will involve review of:

- National and International development goals and sector documents;
- Financial data on allocation and expenditures of the schemes;
- Annual reports of the ministries for output and outcome assessment;
- Available evaluation reports for output and outcomes assessment;
- Annual progress reports and implementation documents to assess the institutional arrangements;
- Available evaluation reports done at the district and state level for the states/districts covered under field study, if applicable;
- Evaluations done by non-government agencies.

An indicative list of key documents to be referred to by the Consultant is placed at Appendix IV(C).

e. Field Study

- Designing of the discussions guides for focus group discussions, interview guides for in-depth interviews and structured questionnaires/schedules for household surveys.
- Preparation of the analysis plan
- Pre-testing and finalizing the required tools in partnership with DMEO team

- Establishment of a managerial structure for field operations
- Recruitment of investigators and training/capacity building of the field investigators
- Putting in place appropriate IT hardware and application software for data collection and management.
- Collecting and compiling the quality data from selected areas.
- High quality data management and adherence to quality assurance mechanisms as per agreed protocols, plans and schedules.
- Collation and data cleaning
- Running data analysis and submitting cross-tabulations/summarizations
- Preparation of draft evaluation report and conducting stakeholder consultations
- Submission of final evaluation report and dissemination of the key findings
- Incorporating concurrent feedback into the workflow

During meta-analysis and field study, inputs from the concerned ministry/department may be incorporated for fine tuning the methodology, preparation of analysis plan, listing of secondary data sources, investigator training and tool/questionnaire design.

5. Primary Data Collection Methodology

- a. A qualitative and quantitative study backed with extensive meta-analysis will be conducted to provide a sectoral assessment. The study will consist of two main components:
 - i. Key Informant Interviews & Focus Group Discussions - Herein, it is proposed that key informant interviews be held with officials from central ministries/departments, state-level implementing bodies and district and block level administration. Other stakeholders supporting implementation or indirectly involved in enabling the scheme's success, as well as opinion makers at the village level should also be interviewed. National level key informants should also include experts from recognized national level think tanks, institutions and prominent non-profit organizations.

Additionally, focus group discussions will be conducted mostly at block and village level with diverse groups involving implementing stakeholders, opinion makers as well as selected beneficiaries.

- ii. Household Surveys - A selected sample of household surveys shall be conducted to assess the beneficiary-level perspective of the programmes.

Since, various CSS schemes have different target groups, it is to be ensured that the sample & geography selection for Key Informant Interviews/household surveys factors in representation from each of the respective target groups/geographies.

Additionally, the key information areas to be covered in the discussion guides/questionnaires for key informant interviews and household surveys should include data points included but not limited to NITI Aayog's Output-Outcome

Monitoring Framework for corresponding schemes. This is further detailed in Appendix IV (D) of the RFP.

b. Sampling

The sample design for a household survey must be stratified in such a way that the sample actually selected is spread over geographic sub-areas and population sub-groups properly. The size of the sample must take account of competing needs so that costs and precision are optimally balanced. Given all India nature of the CSS scheme implementation, the sampling methodology will involve multi-stage, stratified and clustered features. In view of the sector level evaluation, the household surveys will be ‘general-purpose’ in scope, covering multiple topics of interest to the government. The sample plan must make use of clusters of households in order to keep costs to a manageable level but at the same time it must avoid being overly clustered. Keeping in view time frame and other factors, a non-probability judgmental and/or convenience sampling will be followed. The sample size can be based on a comparatively small proportion of the target population focused on several subjects. The survey managers may decide to base the sample size on being able to measure, reliably, a characteristic held by certain percent of the population dependent upon budget considerations.

An indicative sampling framework and minimum sample sizes for costing purposes is as follows:

Entire country can be divided into 6 geographical zones i.e. (i) North & Central, (ii) South, (iii) East, (iv) West, (v) North-East and (vi) Hilly states.

Zone-wise list of states are mentioned in the table below:

Sr No.	Zone	States / UTs
1	North & Central	Chandigarh, Chhattisgarh, Delhi, Haryana, Madhya Pradesh, Punjab, Uttar Pradesh
2	South	Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Kerala, Lakshadweep, Puducherry, Tamil Nadu, Telangana
3	East	Andaman & Nicobar Islands, Bihar, Jharkhand, Orissa, West Bengal
4	West	Dadra & Nagar Haveli, Daman & Diu, Goa, Gujarat, Maharashtra, Rajasthan
5	North-East	Assam, Arunachal Pradesh, Manipur, Meghalaya, Mizoram, Nagaland, Sikkim, Tripura
6	Hilly States	Jammu & Kashmir, Himachal Pradesh, Uttarakhand

A minimum of 11 States and 1 Union Territory are to be selected, of which each zone must be represented by at least one State. The State/UT selection criteria is to be proposed by the Consultant as a part of the Methodology and Work Plan in Appendix I Form 7.

Subsequently, in case of Water Resources sub-sector, within each selected state, all the districts will be classified into 3-4 strata based on key sectoral performance/index and one district can be selected from each strata; thereby taking the total no. of districts selected to a minimum of around 30-35 districts. In a similar way, 3-4 villages will be selected in each district using stratified sampling. Selection of a state, district or village in each strata can be based on either systematic random or probability proportional to size sample selection technique. Within each village, about 10 households will be selected which will cover eligible beneficiaries of one or more CSS covered in the sub-sector.

Similarly, in case of Environment & Forest sub-sector, within each selected state, all the forest reserves like national parks, wildlife sanctuaries, etc. can be classified into 2-3 strata based on project interventions/species and board sectoral performance/index in mind and one forest reserve can be selected from each strata; thereby taking the total no. of forest reserves selected to a minimum of around 24 forest reserves. In a similar way, 2-3 villages will be selected in and around each forest reserve i.e. both core and buffer zone villages using stratified sampling. Selection of a state, forest reserve or village in each strata can be based on either systematic random or probability proportional to size sample selection technique. Within each village, about 10 households will be selected which will cover eligible beneficiaries of one or more CSS covered in the sub-sector. In case of UTs, a minimum of 1 district with 3-4 villages should be selected and a minimum of 10 households from each village should be covered.

It is important to note that these numbers are indicative and it is proposed that the Consultant may suggest their methodology best suited to meet the objectives of the evaluation.

However, for Water Resources sub-sector study, a minimum of about 550 key informant interviews, about 100 focus group discussions and about 1000 household interviews should be conducted as a part of the field study. Similarly, for Environment & Forest sub-sector study, a minimum of about 2 key informant interviews, about 50 focus group discussions and about 500 household interviews should be conducted during the field study.

Also, it should be ensured that Left Wing Extremism-affected (LWE) areas, aspirational districts and island areas are not inadvertently left out, if relevant. This has to be suitably included.

c. Details on the Evaluation Framework & Guidelines are included in Appendix IV(F) of the RFP.

d. Mechanisms to ensure Data Quality

A multi-pronged robust process for quality control needs to be followed during data collection. The following aspects need to be considered:

- i. The field investigators to be engaged for conducting the household study & key informant interviews/FGDs should have at least 3 years of experience in conducting similar surveys/interviews. 2-step training (classroom and then on-the-field training) should be conducted for all field investigators.
- ii. It is recommended that Pilots should be conducted on at least 2% of the sample size for both Key Informant Interviews as well as household surveys to fine tune the inquiry tools. A brief on the learnings from such a pilot exercise and subsequent improvements in the tools/questionnaires should also be shared with NITI Aayog.

- iii. 100% data collected should be validated using a validation checklist. Missing data points should be recollected.
- iv. In case of household survey, at least 50% data should also be telephonically verified and if not verified via phone, back checks should be undertaken to ensure at least 50% data verification.
- v. Use of mobile-based, near real-time and geo-tagged data collection and validation tools should be done to ensure efficiency and accuracy in data collection. Access to the tools and data should be provided to the Authority.

6. Listing of stakeholders to be consulted

An indicative list of stakeholders to be interacted with during the key informant interviews, FGDs, institutional household surveys is placed at Appendix IV(B).

7. Time Schedule

Agencies will be assessed based on the background and experience of the firm/organization/consortium, background and experience of the project team, proposed approach and methodology for the project, and if required, an in-person presentation to the Bid Evaluation Committee.

The process will be as follows:

S No	Activity	Deadline
1	Release of RFP	6 th May 2019
2	Last date for receiving queries/requests for clarifications	16 th May 2019
3	Pre-Proposal Conference	20 th May 2019
4	Final date for submission of bids	4 th June 2019
5	Award of contract	19 th June 2019

8. Deliverables & Timelines

- a. Inception report with final scope, methodology and approach. This should also include findings from the meta-analysis and therefore the areas which will be further explored during field visits.

SCHEDULE-3

(See Clause 2.3.3)

Guidance Note on Conflict of Interest

1. This Note further explains and illustrates the provisions of Clause 2.3 of the RFP and shall be read together therewith in dealing with specific cases.
2. Consultants should be deemed to be in a conflict of interest situation if it can be reasonably concluded that their position in a business or their personal interest could improperly influence their judgment in the exercise of their duties. The process for selection of consultants should avoid both actual and perceived conflict of interest.
3. Conflict of interest may arise between the Authority and a consultant or between consultants and present or future contractors. Some of the situations that would involve conflict of interest are identified below:
 - (a) Authority and consultants:
 - (i) Potential consultant should not be privy to information from the Authority which is not available to others;
 - (ii) potential consultant should not have defined the project when earlier working for the Authority;
 - (iii) potential consultant should not have recently worked for the Authority overseeing the project.
 - (b) Consultants and contractors:
 - (i) No consultant should have an ownership interest or a continuing business interest or an on-going relationship with a potential contractor save and except relationships restricted to project-specific and short-term assignments; or
 - (ii) no consultant should be involved in owning or operating entities resulting from the project; or
 - (iii) no consultant should bid for works arising from the project.

The participation of companies that may be involved as investors or consumers and officials of the Authority who have current or recent connections to the companies involved, therefore, needs to be avoided.

4. The normal way to identify conflicts of interest is through self-declaration by consultants. Where a conflict exists, which has not been declared, competing companies are likely to bring this to the notice of the Authority. All conflicts must be declared as and when the consultants become aware of them.
5. Another approach towards avoiding a conflict of interest is through the use of “Chinese walls” to avoid the flow of commercially sensitive information from one part of the consultant's company to another. This could help overcome the problem of availability of limited numbers of experts for the project. However, in reality effective operation of "Chinese walls" may be a difficult proposition. As a general rule, larger companies will be more capable of adopting Chinese walls approach than smaller companies. Although, "Chinese walls" have been relatively common for many years, they are an increasingly discredited means of avoiding conflicts of interest and should be considered with caution. As a rule, "Chinese walls" should be considered as unacceptable and may be accepted only in exceptional cases upon full disclosure by a consultant coupled with provision of safeguards to the satisfaction of the Authority.

6. Another way to avoid conflicts of interest is through the appropriate grouping of tasks. For example, conflicts may arise if consultants drawing up the terms of reference or the proposed documentation are also eligible for the consequent assignment or project.
7. Another form of conflict of interest called "scope-creep" arises when consultants advocate either an unnecessary broadening of the terms of reference or make recommendations which are not in the best interests of the Authority but which will generate further work for the consultants. Some forms of contractual arrangements are more likely to lead to scope-creep. For example, lump-sum contracts provide fewer incentives for this, while time and material contracts provide built in incentives for consultants to extend the length of their assignment.
8. Every project contains potential conflicts of interest. Consultants should not only avoid any conflict of interest, they should report any present/ potential conflict of interest to the Authority at the earliest. Officials of the Authority involved in development of a project shall be responsible for identifying and resolving any conflicts of interest. It should be ensured that safeguards are in place to preserve fair and open competition and measures should be taken to eliminate any conflict of interest arising at any stage in the process.

Environment & Forest Sub-sector

Background of Schemes

Project Tiger

Project Tiger was launched on 1st April, 1973 for in-situ conservation of wild tigers in designated tiger reserves. Wild tigers are found in 18 of our States, viz. Andhra Pradesh, Arunachal Pradesh, Assam, Bihar, Chhattisgarh, Jharkhand, Karnataka, Kerala, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Mizoram, Odisha, Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu, Telangana, Uttarakhand, Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal. Project Tiger is being implemented in these States in collaboration with the respective State Governments. The objective of the Scheme is to foster an exclusive tiger agenda in the core areas of tiger reserves, with an inclusive people-oriented agenda in the buffer.

Project Elephant

Project Elephant (PE) was launched by the Government of India in the year 1992 as a Centrally Sponsored Scheme. Financial and Technical support are being provided to major elephant bearing States in the country. The project is being implemented in 16 States/UTs, viz. Andhra Pradesh, Arunachal Pradesh, Assam, Chhattisgarh, Jharkhand, Karnataka, Kerala, Maharashtra, Meghalaya, Nagaland, Orissa, Tamil Nadu, Tripura, Uttarakhand, Uttar Pradesh, West Bengal. The objectives are to protect elephants, their habitat & corridors; to address issues of man-animal Conflict; and Welfare of captive elements.

Integrated Development of Wildlife Habitats

This Scheme provides funding assistance to States for support to Protected Areas (PAs) other than tiger reserves, Recovery Programme of critically endangered species, and Protection of wildlife outside Protected Areas including management of human-wild animal conflict. Through this the Government of India provides financial and technical assistance to the State/UT Governments for activities aimed at wildlife conservation.

National Afforestation Programme

National Afforestation Programme provides support, both in physical and capacity building terms, to the Forest Development Agencies (FDAs) which in turn are the main organs to move forward institutionalization of Joint Forest Management. The FDA has been conceived and established as a federation of Joint Forest Management Committees (JFMCs) at the Forest Division level to undertake holistic development in the forestry sector with people's participation. This is a paradigm shift from the earlier afforestation programmes wherein funds were routed through the State Governments.

Forest Fire Prevention and Management Scheme

In view of the uncontrolled forest fire incidences, the Government of India through the Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change (MoEF&CC) has been assisting the efforts of the States/UTs by extending financial assistance every year. This Scheme has been shaped after restructuring the earlier Scheme of Intensification of Forest Management Scheme (IFMS), aims to provide financial assistance to States for their integrated forest fire prevention and management efforts.

Conservation of Aquatic Ecosystems

The Scheme “Conservation of Aquatic Ecosystems” envisages controlling the continued degradation and loss of lakes and wetlands in the country and ensuring their conservation and management by promoting a cross sectoral planning and decision making perspective. It mandates a shift from the sectoral approaches adopted till date for management of these ecosystems, and instead focuses on mainstreaming of aquatic ecosystem services, and biodiversity at State/UT level development programmes.

Conservation of Natural Eco-system- Biosphere Reserves

The Scheme on Biosphere Reserves (BRs) was initiated in 1986 for in-situ conservation of representative ecosystems of major bio-geographic zones of the country that are globally important. Sustainable development, protection research, monitoring, education, training and information exchange are its major components. Assistance is provided for approved activities/interventions in BRs. Research projects are also supported.

National River Conservation Plan

The Central Government started the river pollution abatement programme with the launching of the Ganga Action Plan (GAP-I) in the year 1985. Subsequently, the GAP Phase II was launched in 1993 for pollution abatement of river Yamuna and Gomti, major tributaries of river Ganga. The river pollution abatement programme was further expanded to include other major rivers of the country in 1995 under the aegis of National River Conservation Plan (NRCP). Finally, in December 1996, GAP Phase II was also merged with the NRCP and all projects for river cleaning in the country was brought under one umbrella Scheme of NCRP. The objective of NCRP is to reduce the pollution load in rivers through implementation of various pollution abatement works, thereby improving their water quality.

One of the objectives of the study is to evaluate each of the individual centrally sponsored schemes (CSS) implementation during the 14th Finance Commission (14th FC) cycle (April 2015- March 2020). Some of the CSS were launched during the 14th FC period e.g., Smart Cities. Some of the CSS have continued from 12th Five Year plan period, e.g. MGNREGA. Some have been re-launched during the 14th FC period (e.g., AMRUT, Ayushman Bharat) with an expanded or modified mandate. Depending upon the duration of the implementation period, the evaluation has to flexibly adopt the logical framework to evaluate the scheme (Figure 1).

Logical Framework: Inputs, Activities, Outputs, Outcomes, and Impact

The evaluation will adopt the logical framework for consistency across all the 10 studies. The logical framework or logframe is an analytical tool used to plan, monitor and evaluate projects. It derives its name from the logical linkages to connect a project's means with its ends. The main components of logical framework are inputs, activities, outputs, outcome and impact, which are described below:

- a) Inputs: The financial, human, material, technological and information resources used for the development intervention.
- b) Activity: Actions taken or work performed through which inputs, such as funds, human resources, and other types of resources are mobilised to produce specific outputs.
- c) Outputs: The products and services which result from the completion of activities within a development intervention.
- d) Outcome: The intended or achieved short-term and medium-term effects of an intervention's outputs. Outcomes represent changes in development conditions which occur between the completion of outputs and the achievement of impact.
- e) Impact: Positive and negative long-term effects on identifiable population groups produced by a development intervention, directly or indirectly, intended or unintended. These effects can be economic, socio-cultural, institutional, environmental, technological or of other types.

The evaluation team will assess all the dimensions of the logical framework. In mature programs whose implementation period is more than 5 years, greater emphasis will be on outcomes and impact, while in more recently launched programs with less than 5 years of implementation period, the evaluation will focus more on activities, outputs and outcomes.

Cross Sectional Themes

It is important for the evaluation to assess the relevant cross sectional themes, where such a theme is not the main component of the scheme but can indirectly influence scheme performance in terms its relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, equity and sustainability. The specific cross-sectional themes relevant to a sector have been covered in the evaluation study objectives.

Mixed Methods and Triangulation

Given various constraints and complexity of the evaluation of CSS, a flexible mixed methodology, relying on triangulation of existing evidence and primary data to be collected by the evaluation study would be required. Mixed methods approaches are used to increase validity of evaluation findings by using a variety of data collection techniques. Using both qualitative and quantitative data collection, along with meta-analysis of previous evaluation studies and monitoring reports produced by the government (central, state, government agencies, etc.) and by non-government agencies (think tanks, academia, international development agencies), the evaluation study will triangulate the findings to evaluate the scheme using the Relevance, Effectiveness, Efficiency, Equity, Sustainability and Impact framework. During the designing of the evaluation tools—qualitative and quantitative--the evaluation consultant will keep in view the relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, sustainability, equity and impact framework, which is described below:

Assessments using the core criteria of relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, sustainability, impact (REESI)¹⁸ and equity

¹⁸ ECG. 2011. Good Practice Standards for Public Sector Operations. Washington, DC: <https://www.ecgnet.org/documents/4794/download>

Relevance. The relevance assessment addresses the extent to which: (i) the intended outcomes of the scheme were strategically aligned with India's national priorities (considering both what is included in the scheme and what ought to be included) and did not duplicate other government initiatives; and (ii) the scheme design was appropriate for achieving the intended outcomes, i.e., competent analysis was carried out, lessons were applied, the right financing instrument or modality was chosen, innovation and transformative effects were given attention, and the indicators and targets at various levels were laid down well and lent themselves to measurement.

In assessing for relevance, credit should be given to scheme design elements that are innovative and/or that contribute to transformative effects, in terms of significantly improving the beneficiaries' well-being, or promoting positive reforms. A scheme's approach to addressing an identified development constraint should be assessed relative to existing good practice standards.

Effectiveness. The effectiveness assessment looks at whether the scheme's intended outcomes were achieved or were expected to be achieved at the time of observation, and whether any unintended outcomes had inadvertently reduced the value of the scheme. The outcomes are evaluated against the baselines and targets listed in the scheme documents at the outcome level. Outcomes must be available to the intended scheme beneficiaries. For a scheme to be assessed as effective, outcomes should have been achieved or be likely to be achieved and output targets should normally also have been substantially achieved. Scheme-level output-outcome monitoring framework indicators provided as part of the terms of reference will be used for assessment of effectiveness.

Data on outputs and outcomes need to be derived from credible and documented sources. When no data on outcomes are available, it may be possible to review available data on the quality of outputs and capacity of the facilities developed by the scheme, as well as available data on demand conditions, to infer the likely level of usage of the outputs and the attainment of outcomes. Some outputs can serve as leading indicators of outcomes. Lack of any credible evidence can be reason to assume the outcomes were not fully achieved.

Schemes can have unintended adverse effects on people if social and environmental risks are not dealt with. If scheme interventions resulted in environmental degradation or in scheme communities or women being negatively affected (in spite of safeguard measures or gender action plans), the effectiveness assessment will be reduced. If well executed safeguard plans have led to net benefits, for instance if they have improved the livelihoods of affected people or improved the environment, this will improve the effectiveness assessment.

Efficiency: The efficiency of a scheme is a measure of how well it used resources to achieve its outcomes. It indicates whether the scheme used resources efficiently for the country and/or on a whole-of-life basis. A quantitative assessment that weighs the scheme's economic benefits against economic costs is generally needed to assess efficiency. Scheme economic performance indicators, such as the EIRR, net present value, and the benefit-cost ratio, are often used to determine whether the net gains from investing in a particular scheme will be enjoyed by society following scheme completion. Applying the traditional EIRR approach may not always be feasible, for instance for some social sector schemes, or for other schemes where benefits are not easy to quantify comprehensively. In such cases, alternative analytical methods may have to be used: least cost analysis, among others.

Unit cost analysis can be used as a proxy for economic efficiency where benefits cannot be quantified with a high degree of confidence, or where data on benefits are not available. Efficiency can sometimes be analyzed for an assumed level of economic benefits, based on an average unit cost analysis based on industry benchmarks, at the time of appraisal and completion. Analysis can be based on unit costs for comparable activities that could achieve the same or similar benefits in order to assess efficiency on a least unit cost basis. If financial data are lacking, estimates can be prepared for indicators such as average financial unit costs for achieving a defined development outcome. Cost per beneficiary estimations can also be used in sectors such as education and health.

A process efficiency assessment should examine aspects such as the scale of delays and cost overruns and their effects on scheme performance, including the factors that resulted or contributed to these overruns.

Sustainability: The sustainability assessment will focus on the likelihood that scheme outcomes and outputs will be maintained over the economic life of the scheme or over a meaningful timeframe. Since evaluation in some schemes is carried out during the first few years of the scheme's operational life, evaluators must make assumptions about the likely sustainability of operational arrangements, many of which are new, and about probable future operations and maintenance arrangements. They must also look into the wider environmental effects of schemes. The major factors to be considered when assessing sustainability are as follows:

- a) Sustainability and managing risks. Assessments of sustainability should consider risks such as political, economic, institutional, technical, social, environmental, and financial events that might limit the extent to which the scheme's achievements continue to be felt. The assessment should also consider the adequacy of risk mitigation measures.
- b) Financial sustainability. This can be assessed on a qualitative or a quantitative basis depending on the feasibility of assessing the scheme's income (revenue) and expenditure flows. Financial viability for revenue-generating schemes is based on the estimated financial internal rate of return (FIRR) of these incremental cash flows. Key aspects of the financial sustainability of both revenue and non-revenue generating schemes are: the financial capacity of the agency involved, prospects for the demand for services or products, cost recovery mechanisms, and the availability of resources for O&M of the scheme outputs.
- c) Institutional sustainability. The assessment of institutional sustainability needs to consider factors such as the ability to ensure adequate levels of qualified human resources, finance, equipment and other inputs, and the suitability of organizational arrangements and processes, governance structures, and institutional incentives. An institutional assessment may include an analysis of how the ownership, functions, structures, and capacity of scheme-related agencies affected scheme-related inputs and service delivery, including the institution's capacity to assume its identified role or mandate.
- d) Environmental and social sustainability. The scheme's likely medium- to long- term effects on natural resource management, pollution, biodiversity, and greenhouse gas emissions should form part of the sustainability assessment, if applicable. Close attention also needs to be paid to the effects of the scheme on social sustainability, for instance how the scheme is accepted by the local communities and stakeholders.

Impacts: The development impacts assessment is focused on long-term, far-reaching changes to which the scheme has plausibly contributed. It should answer questions such as: Does the scheme contribute to reaching higher-level development objectives (preferably, overall objective/national priorities)? What is the impact or effect of the intervention in proportion to the overall situation of the target group or those affected? Further, the assessment should also consider possible unintended positive and negative development impacts.

Special development impacts: If the scheme aimed to have demonstration effects and/or had innovative features, their impact may be considered. The assessment can also include a discussion of any efforts to scale up and replicate successful features of the scheme that were not previously evident in other schemes in the country or in communities, that have been made during or after scheme implementation. Other elements that would receive positive consideration include successful capacity building activities, and potential for positive institutional or governance impacts.

Attribution to the scheme: Development impacts to which the scheme contributes tend to be outside the scheme's direct control and their achievement is often not solely attributable to the scheme outcomes. Typically, they are dependent on other development efforts. The focus of analysis should be on the contribution of scheme outcomes to the achievement of the impacts.

Equity: In addition to the globally accepted REESI framework, it is important to conduct the evaluation through the lens of equity. It assesses the extent to which government services are being made available to and accessed by different social groups. Particularly in schemes designed for universal coverage, the fair inclusion or intended or unintended exclusion of beneficiaries belonging to vulnerable, marginalized, disadvantaged groups and weaker sections of society must be considered. The existence and effectiveness of targeted action for these groups should also be assessed. Further, the schemes should be assessed based on their contribution to the reduction of inequality of opportunity and income.

It should be assessed whether this principle has been integrated into the scheme at the design stage, as well as whether it is playing out in implementation, i.e. whether all sub-groups within the target beneficiary group are getting equitable benefits. This will involve identifying barriers to participation among different groups, and whether these barriers have been sufficiently addressed by the scheme design and implementation. Equity should thus be factored in during data collection, preparation of findings and conclusions and in the recommendations arising from the evaluation.

Tools for evaluation

Both qualitative and quantitative tools will be utilized by the consultant to assess the CSS from the relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, sustainability and impact framework. While framing the questionnaires for qualitative and quantitative tools, the audience, questions and information use given at Figure 2 may be considered.

Qualitative tools: The consultant will utilize in-depth interviews and focus group discussion.

In-depth Interview: It is a personal interview that is carried out with one respondent at a time. This is purely a conversational method and invites opportunities to get details in depth from the respondent. One of the advantages of this method provides a great opportunity to gather precise data about what people believe and what their motivations are. These interviews can be performed face-to-face or on phone and usually can last between half an hour to two hours or even more.

What results have been produced to date? What results are likely in the next year or two? Why would the program produce those results? What are the program's main problems? How long will it take to solve those problems? What kinds of information do you get on the program's performance and results? What kinds of information do you need? How do you (how would you) use this information? What kinds of program performance information are requested by key stakeholders?
- Guide for Review of Documentation and Interviews with Operating-Level Managers and Staff: What are your goals for the project or program? What are the major project activities? Why will those activities achieve those goals? What resources are available to the project? Number of staff? Total budget? Sources of funds? What outputs are being delivered by the project? To whom? What evidence is necessary to determine whether goals are met? What happens if goals are met? What happens if they are not met? How is the project related to local priorities? What data or records are maintained? Costs? Services delivered? Service quality? Outcomes? Something else? How often are these data collected? How is this information used? Does anything change based on these data or records? What major problems are you experiencing? How long will it take to solve those problems? What results have been produced to date? What results are likely in the next two to three years?

Focus Group: A focus group is a group interview of approximately six to twelve people who share similar characteristics or common interests. A facilitator guides the group based on a predetermined set of topics. The facilitator creates an environment that encourages participants to share their perceptions and points of view. Focus groups are a qualitative data collection method, meaning that the data is descriptive and cannot be measured numerically. Focus groups are useful for: gathering feedback on activities, projects and services; generating and evaluating data from different groups that use a service or facility, or that an agency wants to target; generating and evaluating data from different groups within a local community or population; and developing topics, themes and questions for further research activities like questionnaires and more detailed interviews. They are good in use in conjunction with other forms of evaluation as they can help 'triangulate' findings.

Quantitative Tools

Household/individual level survey: The household survey is important to evaluate the quantity and quality of outputs (services rendered by the government or publicly funded services but provided through private or non-government organizations). Household surveys also give deeper insights into outcomes, although establishing cause-effect relationship between an individual CSS outputs to outcomes may be not that clear. With help of innovative survey designs, triangulation between qualitative and quantitative, along with weight of past evidence, a more robust understanding of umbrella and individual CSS's contribution to desired sector outcomes can be arrived for policy making purposes.

Household surveys will consist of two parts: household level questions and individual level questions.

To ensure consistency across all the 10 studies, both household and individual level survey questionnaires will consist of standardized questionnaires as well as sector specific variable questionnaires. The standardized questionnaire will be provided around the time of bid award, but will broadly follow the household characteristics of 69 and 71 rounds of the National Sample Survey of India, and individual characteristics of 71 round of the National Sample Survey of India.¹⁹

Generalizability of the findings

The key to quantitative surveys is to find a means to strengthen the generalizability of findings once desired outcome are measured. The key questions to ask to strengthen the generalizability of findings include:

¹⁹ http://mospi.nic.in/download-reports?main_cat=Nzly&cat=All&sub_category=All

- a) To what groups or sites will generalization be desired?
- b) What are the key demographic (or other) groups to be represented in the sample?
- c) What sample size, with adequate sampling of important subgroups, is needed to make generalizations about the outcomes of the intervention?
- d) What aspects of the intervention and context in which it was implemented merit careful measurement to enable generalizability or transferability of findings?
